Customer Review: Artistry at it's height

This recital finds Schwarzkopf at the height of her vocal & artistic powers, and has the added bonus of being accompanied by one of her "teachers", who was one of the great lied accompanist in the 1930s & 1940s. Raucheisen was responsible for a massive recording project of German Lied, fearing that with Germany's defeat it would be banned from performance – fortunately Allied attitude to German music was far different to the Nazis and theirs to Jewish composers. It is nice to have this collaboration of "teacher & pupil", it being shortly before his retirement.
