Choir & Organ (Stephen Bicknell - 01.11.2001)

Anyone who records Reubke before the age of 30 deserves close attention and Stefan Frank (b.1974) does not disappoint. His blistering account of the Sonata is comparable to Kynaston at Ingoldstadt and the organ (Sandtner 1983 rebuilt – already? – in 1998) is indeed not unlike a Klais in its late-modern brutality. The monster acoustic makes the terrifying sounds bearable. Bach sounds too pungent with this palette but the Guillou Toccata is in its element.
